The Peer Review Process

Submission: To ensure the quality and standards of publication, following process of review will be followed upon submission of the manuscript (Invited articles shall be exempted from the peer review process) -

Initial manuscript evaluation:

1. All submissions will be first checked for plagiarism using standard software. If an article is found to have high level of similarity or plagiarised work of others without due or insufficient acknowledgements, the editors reserve the right to retract the article or may resend the articles to the authors for resubmitting the same with due corrections.
2. All new submissions will be then screened for adherence to the Journal's policy and guidelines.
3. The authors whose manuscript are rejected at the initial evaluation stage will be informed within three to four weeks of the submission.
4. The authors whose manuscripts have passed the initial stage will be assigned to senior editors for further consideration.

Editor evaluation

The Senior Editors will evaluate the manuscript for its originality, conceptual and methodological consistency, grammar and language as well as decide whether the submissions are within the aims and scope of the journal. The Editors reserve the right to decide whether the submission requires further review or not.

Peer Review

Once the submissions are shortlisted by the Editors, they will be sent for double peer review. The double peer review process being anonymous (Blind), the name of the author shall be concealed. Each manuscript shall be reviewed by two referees, invited by the Editorial board based on the expertise on the subject /area of the submission.

Peer Review Guidelines

The Reviewer shall evaluate the manuscript and submit report on the basis of–

- Originality and significance of the contribution
- Coverage and adequacy of appropriate and existing literature
- Relevance to the subject area as well as its national and international relevance
- Clarity, consistency, style of writing
- Structure, organisation, analysis and interpretation

Timeline

The Reviewer shall be given sufficient time (at least 60 days) to review the submission and submit suggestions, recommend changes as well as decide on the merit of the submission. In the event of a change in circumstance prior to the completion of the review, or if an extension is necessary, the same is required to be communicated to the journal at the earliest.

Non-disclosure of content

In the good faith of respecting the confidentiality of the peer review process, the peer reviewers are required to refrain from using the information acquired for their own or another's advantage.

Confidentiality

Name, background and other details of the reviewer and the author are not to be disclosed in any circumstance by either of the parties.

Bias and competing interests

The reviewers are expected to remain unbiased regarding nationality, religious or political beliefs, gender or any other such characteristics of the origins or contents of the manuscript or by any commercial aspects.

Non-transferability of peer review

Any peer review conducted for this journal remains non-transferable to other journals or publications.

Editorial board reserves all the right to modify/update the guidelines.

Assessment Criteria

The Reviewer will evaluate the submitted article according to the following criteria and in the format provided:

1. Do you recommend/accept this manuscript for publication? If yes, should the acceptance be with no changes or minor or major revisions?
2. How original is the research idea? Does the research add to the already existing literature in the subject area?
3. Is the language of the manuscript lucid and easy to read?
4. Is the manuscript of appropriate length?

5. Does the title and introduction provide a clear overview and introduce the topic accordingly?
6. Does the conclusion aptly answer the research question posed in the manuscript?
7. Does the article include any empirical research and has the author(s) used viable research methodology/ies to arrive at conclusions vis à vis data collected? Whether the conclusion derived from these statistics appears to be relevant to the research conducted?
8. Is the manuscript supported by reliable sources?
9. Does the article fit into the editorial aims and scope of the journal?
10. Other comments
11. Constructive suggestions: What changes or revisions should be made by the author to make the manuscript publishable?

The reports

The reviewer/s report as received will be sent to the author after concealing the name of the reviewers. In case the authors wish to comment/respond on the comments of the reviewer/s it shall be made available to the reviewers after concealing the name of the contributor. The standard policy practice is for both identities to remain concealed.

The final decision and time to publication

On the receipt of the reviewer's comments/suggestions or decision, the Editor will be responsible for the final decision to reject or recommend the manuscript for publication. In case the manuscript requires changes and depending on the changes required, the author shall be given 30 days to resubmit the manuscript after incorporating the changes suggested by the reviewer.

On receipt of the revised manuscript, the Editors will check on whether the author has adhered to or incorporated all the changes suggested. The Editors reserve the right to resend the accepted paper for further review to the same reviewer or to any other person it deems fit.

After acceptance, it takes 3 to 4 weeks to get the final corrected draft of the set of accepted compiled manuscripts of a particular volume to be sent to the publisher for typesetting.

Following the receipt of the typeset draft, the Editors will once again proof read the content for any errors. This process usually takes 1 to 2 weeks.

The complete set of manuscripts compiled into a volume will be sent for final printing. The process usually takes 4 weeks.

Publication Ethics

Fair Play

An editor will at any time evaluate manuscripts for their intellectual content without regard to race, gender, sexual orientation, religious belief, ethnic origin, citizenship, or political philosophy of the authors.

Confidentiality

The editor and any editorial members must not disclose any information about a submitted manuscript to anyone other than the corresponding author, reviewers, potential reviewers, other editorial advisers, and the publisher, as appropriate.

Article assessment

All manuscripts are subject to peer review and are expected to meet standards of academic excellence. If approved by the editor, submissions will be considered by peer reviewers, whose identities will remain anonymous to the authors.

The Editor may consult experts and the academic editor before deciding on appropriate actions, including but not limited to recruiting reviewers with specific expertise, assessment by additional editors, and declining to further consider a submission.

Standards of Objectivity

Reviews should be conducted objectively. Personal criticism of the author is inappropriate. Referees should express their views clearly with supporting arguments.

Plagiarism/ Acknowledgement of Sources

Authors must not use the words, figures, or ideas of others without attribution. Any statement that an observation, derivation, or argument had been previously reported should be accompanied by the relevant citation. Reuse of wording must be limited and be attributed or quoted in the text.

The Gujarat Maritime University uses Similarity Check software to detect submissions that overlap with published and submitted manuscripts.

Manuscripts that are found to have been plagiarized from a manuscript by other authors, whether published or unpublished, will be rejected and the authors may incur sanctions. Any published articles may need to be corrected or retracted.

Duplicate submission and redundant publication

Gujarat Maritime University (GMU) considers only original content, i.e. articles that have not been previously published, including in a language other than English.

Manuscripts submitted to Gujarat Maritime University must not be submitted elsewhere while under consideration and must be withdrawn before being submitted elsewhere. Authors whose articles are found to have been simultaneously submitted elsewhere may incur sanctions.

The journals will consider extended versions of articles published at conferences provided this is declared in the cover letter, the previous version is clearly cited and discussed, there is significant new content, and any necessary permissions are obtained.

Duplicate publication of the same, or a very similar, article may result in the retraction of the later article and the authors may incur sanctions.

Citation manipulation

Authors whose submitted manuscripts are found to include citations whose primary purpose is to increase the number of citations to a given author's work, or to articles published in a particular journal, may incur sanctions.

Fabrication and falsification

The authors of submitted manuscripts or published articles that are found to have fabricated or falsified the results, including the manipulation of images, may incur sanctions, and published articles may be retracted.

Authorship of the Paper

Authorship should be limited to those who have made a significant contribution to the conception, design, execution, or interpretation of the reported study. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors. Where there are others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the research project, they should be acknowledged or listed as contributors. The corresponding author should ensure that all appropriate co-authors and no inappropriate co-authors are included on the paper, and that all co-authors have seen and approved the final version of the paper and have agreed to its submission for publication.

Disclosure and Conflicts of Interest

All authors should disclose in their manuscript any financial or other substantive conflict of interest that might be construed to influence the results or interpretation of their manuscript. All sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed.

Fundamental Errors in Published Works

When an author discovers a significant error or inaccuracy in his/her own published work, it is the author's obligation to promptly notify the journal editor or publisher and cooperate with the editor to retract or correct the paper.

Sanctions

If the Editors becomes aware of breaches of our publication ethics policies, whether or not the breach occurred in a journal published by Gujarat Maritime University, the following sanctions may be applied across the journal published by Gujarat Maritime University:

- Rejection of the manuscript and any other manuscripts submitted by the author(s).
- Not allowing submission for 1–3 years.
- Prohibition from acting as an editor or reviewer.

Additional sanctions for any ethical violations will be decided by the University.
